Apply by: February 15 for Summer 2015 and March 5 for Fall 2015

For this program, the University of Illinois has partnered with Gustolab Institute Center for Food Studies and Scuola Leonardo da Vinci both located in the historical center of Rome. Gustolab designs programs of study on Food Studies and Italian culture with a network of experts and professionals in the field. Scuola Leonardo da Vinci has welcomed students from all over the world since 1977 to study the Italian language. The program is dedicated to offering many cultural and education opportunities outside of the classroom.

Where you will study
With nearly 2.8 million residents, Rome is the fifth most populous city in the European Union. Known as the Eternal City, Rome is one of the oldest cities in Europe with a history that spans more than two and a half thousand years. In the Summer program, students may have their internships throughout the country of Italy!

What you will study
The SUMMER program includes the following courses:
• Critical Studies on Food & Wine
• Food, Nutrition & Culture in Italy
• Food Media, Communication & Trends
• Italian Lexicon for Food Studies
• Internship (credit hours vary by student’s academic department/college)

Learn more online: studyabroad.illinois.edu > Programs > Program Search > “Rome Center”

The FALL program includes the following courses:
• Sustainable Agriculture & Food Systems – ACES 199, ECON 220 or 420
• Psychology, Science & Politics of Mediterranean Diet – ACES 1—
• Olive Oil & Wine Production: Nutrition, Culture & Communication – FSHN 304
• Food Marketing & Business: Italian Food, Hospitality and Tourism – BADM 3—
• Italian Lexicon for Food Studies – ITAL 199